

The Flier – Sample page
© Kitty Felde

WOMAN

Read the flier! It's a horrible thing. Imagine such a thing here, in this neighborhood.

MAN

I mean if it panics the neighborhood, it'll be that much harder to sell.

WOMAN

What do you mean sell? We're not going anywhere.

MAN

Of course we are.

WOMAN

Pete, I can't believe you're buying into this nonsense.

MAN

It's not nonsense. It's a simple matter of economics.

WOMAN

You've already made up your mind.

MAN

We've know about it for a month.

WOMAN

And we decided to stay.

MAN

We said we'd think about it.

WOMAN

We are good Christian people.

MAN

Whose biggest investment is this house.

We hear a dog bark. Woman goes back to the window.

WOMAN

John Jay Murphy, how many times have I told you Barky does not like pulling the wagon. He does not. Untie him now. Now!

MAN

I know you love this house.

WOMAN

It's not the house.

MAN

It's not the house?

WOMAN

It's the principle of the thing. And are you going to base a major decision about our lives on that thing? A piece of paper stuck under the door?